TAZEWELL COUNTY, ILLINOIS

MOTION FOR PROTECTIVE ORDER
PURSUANT TO SUPREME COURT RULE 201(c)

Jeffrey Reinking, by counsel, moves for a protective order pursuant to Supreme Court Rule 201(c). As set forth below, Jeffrey Reinking should be under no obligation to respond to Plaintiff Christian Perez's ("Plaintiff") discovery until the Court has ruled on Jeffrey Reinking's Motion to Dismiss.

1. Under Illinois Supreme Court Rule 201(c),

[a trial] court may at any time on its own initiative, or on motion of any party or witness, make a protective order as justice requires, denying, limiting, conditioning, or regulating discovery to prevent unreasonable annoyance, expense, embarrassment, disadvantage, or oppression.

Ill. Sup. Ct. R. 201(c).

2. Because Rule 201(c) is only governed by the "broad standard" of "as justice requires," Illinois courts have "broad discretion to make protective orders." Statland v. Freeman, 112 Ill. 2d 494, 499 (1986).

3. This Court should exercise its broad discretion to enter a protective order here.

4. Jeffrey Reinking has filed a Motion to Dismiss Plaintiff's Complaint because the complaint failed to state a cause of action against Reinking. For instance, because Plaintiff has not and cannot make allegations demonstrating that Jeffrey Reinking had a superior or exclusive right of control over Travis Reinking's firearms, Plaintiff's negligent entrustment claim fails. See Zedella v. Gibson, 165 Ill. 2d 181, 186 (1995).

5. Additionally, since the Motion to Dismiss addresses each claim made against Jeffrey Reinking, if successful, the Motion will be dispositive of the entire case against Jeffrey Reinking.

6. Plaintiff has served Jeffrey Reinking with interrogatories and requests for production.

7. As many Illinois courts have recognized, because this Court has sufficient information to rule on Jeffrey Reinking's Motion to Dismiss, Plaintiff's discovery is premature and should be stayed until Reinking's dispositive motion has been resolved. See, e.g., DOD Tech. v. Mesirow Ins. Serv., 381 Ill. App. 3d 1042, 1054-55 (1st Dist. 2008); Evitts v. DaimlerChrysler Corp., 359 Ill. App. 3d 504, 513-13 (1st Dist. 2005) ("A circuit court may properly stay or quash a discovery request when it has sufficient information upon which to rule on a motion to dismiss"); Adkins Energy LLC v. Delta-T Corp., 347 Ill. App. 3d 373, 381 (2nd Dist. 2004) ("A trial court may properly quash a discovery request when it has sufficient information upon which to decide a defendant's motion to dismiss."); Mutlu v. Sate Farm Fire & Cas. Co., 337 Ill. App. 3d 420, 434 (1st Dist. 2003) (court properly quashed plaintiff's discovery request when it had sufficient information to rule in favor of defendant's motion for summary judgment).

8. As in these cases, until the Court rules on Jeffrey Reinking's motion, Jeffrey Reinking should not be taxed with discovery. A contrary result would not only be unfairly and unnecessarily burdensome on Mr. Reinking, but it would constitute a judicially inefficient method for resolving this case.

9. Therefore, Jeffrey Reinking should have no obligation to respond to Jeffrey Reinking's Interrogatories and Request for Production – through objections or responses – until his Motion to Dismiss has been resolved.

10. Finally, Plaintiff's discovery served on Jeffrey Reinking has a number of substantive defects. By filing this motion for protective order, Jeffrey Reinking does not waive or otherwise affect any other objections that he may have to Plaintiff's discovery.

WHEREFORE Jeffrey Reinking prays that this Honorable Court grant his Motion for Protective Order pursuant to Rule 201(c), rule that Jeffrey Reinking has no obligation to respond to discovery until his Motion to Dismiss is resolved, and grant any further relief that it deems fit.

JEFFREY REINKING'S MOTION TO DISMISS AND MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT THEREOF

Jeffrey Reinking, by counsel, hereby moves to dismiss the Plaintiff's Complaint pursuant to 735 ILCS 5/2-615. In support of this Motion, Jeffrey Reinking offers the following memorandum of law:

Introduction

The premise of Plaintiff's Complaint against Jeffrey Reinking is fundamentally flawed. In it, Plaintiff seeks to impose a duty on Jeffrey Reinking to indefinitely deprive another adult of possession of his personal property without legal authority to do so. This is not a duty recognizable under Illinois law. As a result, the Plaintiff's Complaint must be dismissed.

Background of Plaintiff's Complaint

1. Plaintiff filed a two count negligence complaint against Jeffrey Reinking alleging negligent entrustment (Count I) and a purported "gratuitous assumption of a duty" (Count II). See Complaint.

2. Both theories are based on an assertion that Jeffrey Reinking allowed his adult son Travis Reinking to repossess Travis's own firearms after Travis's Firearm Owners Identification (FOID) card had been revoked. (Complaint at ¶¶ 24, 33, 76-82, 83-88.)¹

3. According to the Complaint, Jeffrey Reinking had Travis's firearms because Jeffrey Reinking received them as a result of the revocation of Travis Reinking's FOID card on August 24, 2017. (Complaint at ¶¶ 28-30.)

4. On August 24, 2017, Travis Reinking's FOID card was only revoked due to the Illinois State Policy's determination that Travis was no longer a resident of the State of Illinois. (Exhibit A (August 16, 2017 FOID Revocation Letter)); see also 430 ILCS 65/9 (2018) (A person whose FOID card is revoked "shall receive a written notice from the Department of State Police stating specifically the grounds ... upon which his Identification Card has been revoked.")

5. The Complaint maintains that, sometime after August 24, 2017, Jeffrey Reinking returned Travis Reinking's firearms to him and further alleges that one of these firearms was used in a shooting in Tennessee on April 22, 2018, which resulted in the death of the Plaintiff's decedent. (Complaint at ¶ 33, 34, 37, 42.)

6. According to the Complaint, Travis Reinking was a citizen and resident of Tennessee on April 22, 2018. (Complaint at ¶ 12.)

Applicable Standard for This Motion

A motion to dismiss pursuant to Section 2-615 attacks a pleading as legally insufficient on its face. Alpha School Bus Co., Inc. v. Wagner, 391 Ill. App. 3d 722, 735 (1st Dist. 2009).

¹ Jeffrey Reinking disagrees with and denies many of the factual and conclusory allegations in the Complaint, and his reference to any allegation or portion of the Complaint within this Motion is not an admission of the truth or accuracy of the allegation.

Illinois' fact-pleading standard requires that a plaintiff allege "sufficient facts to state all the elements" of his cause of action. Hanks v. Cotler, 2011 IL App (1st) 101088, ¶ 17. Only well-pleaded allegations of fact are taken as true, while conclusions of law and conclusory factual allegations are ignored. Id. at ¶ 17. As such, Plaintiff's negligence claims must contain sufficient factual allegations "to show the following elements: the existence of a duty, breach of the duty, and injury to the plaintiff proximately caused by the breach." Nielsen v. United Servs. Auto. Ass'n, 244 Ill. App. 3d 658, 667 (2nd Dist. 1993). A failure to plead facts in support of each element, including the existence of a recognizable duty, necessitates the dismissal of the Complaint. See City of Chicago v. Beretta U.S.A. Corp., 213 Ill. 2d 351, 368-69 (2004) (failure to plead facts sufficient to state a cause of action warrants dismissal of plaintiff's complaint).

Grounds for Dismissal of Plaintiff's Complaint

I. Count I: Plaintiff's Negligent Entrustment Theory Fails Because Jeffrey Reinking Did Not Have a Superior or Exclusive Right of Control over Travis Reinking's Firearms.

The Complaint's negligent entrustment theory fails because Plaintiff has not and cannot make allegations demonstrating that Jeffrey Reinking had a superior or exclusive right of control over Travis Reinking's firearms. In Illinois, a claim of negligent entrustment requires that the items allegedly entrusted to the third party be "under the control of" the defendant. See Zedella v. Gibson, 165 Ill. 2d 181, 186 (1995). In this context, "under the control of" means "that the third person is entitled to possess or use the thing [allegedly being entrusted] ... only by the consent of the" defendant. Id. at 186-87, quoting Rest. (Second) of Torts §308, Comment a. Put another way, if the defendant "does not have an exclusive or superior right of control, no entrustment of the property can occur." Id. at 187.

Here, the Complaint contains no allegations suggesting that Jeffrey Reinking had an exclusive or superior right of control over Travis Reinking's firearms. The Complaint makes no allegations suggesting that Jeffrey Reinking owned the firearms at issue or even purchased the firearms for Travis Reinking. Nor could it. The firearms at issue were acquired by and belonged to Travis Reinking.

Likewise, Travis Reinking was an adult, and Illinois does not recognize a right by parents to control the conduct or actions of their adult children or impose liability onto parents for their adult children's alleged misconduct. See 740 ILCS 115/3 (2018) (Parental Responsibility Law applies only to minor children who have not been emancipated); Lott v. Strang, 312 Ill. App. 3d 521, 523-24 (4th Dist. 2000) (the duty to exercise reasonable care to control children under §316 of Restatement (2nd) of Torts only applies to minors). Thus, as the adult owner of the firearms at issue, Travis Reinking had a superior right of control over the firearms, Travis Reinking had the right to demand their return, and Jeffrey Reinking would have no legal authority to refuse that demand.

The Complaint's allegations concerning the revocation of Travis Reinking's FOID card do not change this analysis. As the Complaint admits, Travis Reinking became a resident and citizen of the State of Tennessee. Indeed, the only justification provided for the revocation of Travis's FOID card was on the basis of non-residency. See Exhibit A; 430 ILCS 65/8(q) (2018) (FOID card can be revoked when the holder is not a resident of Illinois). And, non-residents are permitted to possess firearms in Illinois without a FOID card. See, for example, 430 ILCS 65/8(b) (5), (7), (8), (9), and (10) (2018). Therefore, because Travis Reinking was no longer an Illinois resident for purposes of FOID compliance, Jeffrey Reinking could not use Travis's alleged lack of a FOID card as a legitimate basis for withholding Travis's firearms from the possession of their owner.

In short, the Complaint lacks allegations demonstrating that Jeffrey Reinking had a superior or exclusive right to control Travis Reinking's firearms. And, without the establishment of a superior or exclusive right of control, the negligent entrustment claim against Jeffrey Reinking must be dismissed.

II. Count II: Jeffrey Reinking Did Not Have a Duty To the "Community" To Keep Travis Reinking's Firearms Away From Him.

Count II of Plaintiff's Complaint is also defective. In Count II, Plaintiff attempts to impose a duty on Jeffrey Reinking to the "community of those who came or were to come in the vicinity of Travis Reinking," including individuals in other states, to ensure that Travis Reinking did not have access to his own firearms. No such duty exists.

In Illinois, the presence of a duty is a question of law for the court that can be "very involved, complex and indeed nebulous." Widlowski v. Durkee Foods, 138 Ill. 2d 369, 376 (1990), quoting Mieher v. Brown, 54 Ill. 2d 539, 545 (1973). "The touchstone of ... [the] duty analysis is to ask whether a plaintiff and a defendant stood in such a relationship to one another that the law imposed upon the defendant an obligation of reasonable conduct for the benefit of the plaintiff." Simpkins v. CSX Transp., Inc., 2012 IL 110662, ¶ 16 (emphasis in original). This reference to "relationship" "acts as a shorthand description of the sum of four factors: (1) the reasonable foreseeability of the injury; (2) the likelihood of the injury, (3) the magnitude of the burden of guarding against the injury, and (4) the consequences of placing that burden on the defendant." Id. When determining if a duty exists, a court also considers "the public policy and social requirements of the time and community." Widlowski, 138 Ill. 2d at 375. No factor, including the foreseeability of injury, is determinative. See Simpkins, 2012 IL 110662, ¶ 24 (foreseeability of injury is a necessary but not sufficient factor for imposition of a duty onto the defendant). Instead, deciding whether a duty exists "requires considerations of policy inherent in the consideration of these four factors[,] and the weight accorded each of these factors in any given analysis depends on the circumstances of the case at hand." Simpkins, 2012 IL 110662, ¶ 18. Here, examination of factors relevant to the duty analysis demonstrates that it would be inappropriate to impose on Jeffrey Reinking the duty to prevent another adult from repossessing his own property.

As an initial matter, it is difficult to see how Plaintiff can argue that a defendant can "reasonably foresee" injuries purportedly resulting from the defendant allowing another adult to repossess his own property when the defendant has no right of dominion over the property. More importantly, irrespective of foreseeability, other factors relevant to the determination of a duty demonstrate its nonexistence here.

For instance, the magnitude of the burden that Plaintiff seeks to impose and the consequences on the defendant – here and in other cases – are impossibly severe given that the Plaintiff seeks to create a duty that defendants cannot legally satisfy. As explained above, even if Jeffrey Reinking had temporary possession of Travis Reinking's firearms, Travis Reinking still would have had a superior right to control and possess the firearms and had the power to demand their return. Consequently, once Travis would demand the return of the firearms, Jeffrey Reinking would lack the legal authority to refuse compliance. Indeed, if Jeffrey Reinking would refuse to return Travis's firearms to him, Jeffrey Reinking potentially would be subject to civil or even criminal liability. See A.T. Kearney, Inc. v. INCA Int'l, Inc., 132 Ill. App. 3d 655, 664

(1st Dist. 1985) (setting forth the elements of conversion); 720 ILCS 5/16-1(a) (1) ("A person commits theft when he or she knowingly ... exerts unauthorized control over property of the owner"). For the same reason, the imposition of this type of duty does not reduce the likelihood of injury because the purported avenue for reducing the likelihood of injury (the indefinite dispossession of an adult of his own personal property) is not something that is legally available to the defendant.

Additionally, from a social perspective, the duty sought by Count II improperly blurs the distinction between citizen and state and seeks to impose the obligation and police powers of the state onto an individual. A private citizen does not have the right to indefinitely possess the property of another adult against the other adult's wishes simply because the private citizen believes that the other adult should no longer have the property in question. That is a right that only potentially belongs to the state. And, even then, the right would be subject to the restrictions and procedures imposed by the United States and Illinois Constitutions, as well as the Illinois statutory and common law authority. See, for example, Ill. Const. art. I, § 2 ("No person shall be deprived of ... property without due process of law"); Ill. Const. art. I, § 6 ("The people shall have the right to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and other possessions against unreasonable searches [and] seizures").

Finally, the Complaint's contention that the Tazewell County Sheriff's Department purportedly told Jeffrey Reinking that he could not give the firearms back to Travis Reinking does not affect the lack of a duty. Complaint at ¶¶ 29-31. First, a citizen should not be forced to assume a duty or obligation by state actors that the citizen lacks the authority and power to satisfy.

Second, there are no facts in the Complaint suggesting that anyone, including the Tazewell County Sheriff's Department, had the power to demand the surrender or seize Travis Reinking's firearms upon the revocation of Travis Reinking's FOID card. Rather, just the opposite is the case. Even when the state revokes an Illinois resident's FOID card, the Illinois resident has 48 hours to complete a Firearm Disposition Record. 430 ILCS 65/95(a). Typically, only if the resident fails to complete the form may the local sheriff's department "petition the circuit court to issue a warrant to search for and seize ... firearms in the possession or under the custody or control of the person whose Firearm Owner's Identification Card has been revoked." 430 ILCS 65/9.5(c).

More importantly, however, when the facts of Travis Reinking's FOID card revocation are considered, even after revocation, Travis Reinking would have the right to possess his firearms in Illinois. The State revoked Travis Reinking's FOID card because it no longer considered him a resident of the State of Illinois. Therefore, after his FOID revocation, for purposes of FOID compliance, Reinking was a non-resident, and non-residents are allowed to possess firearms in Illinois without a FOID card. 430 ILCS 65/2(b) (2018).

Conclusion

In Illinois, the imposition of a duty must be tied to the defendant's power to satisfy it, and where the power to satisfy is lacking, no duty can exist. Because the allegations of the Complaint do not establish that Jeffrey Reinking had legal authority to indefinitely dispossess Travis Reinking of Travis's own property, a duty to keep the property away from Travis cannot be imposed onto Jeffrey Reinking. And, without the presence of a duty, there is no cause of action against Jeffrey Reinking. As a consequence, Jeffrey Reinking prays that this Honorable Court grants this Motion to Dismiss and dismiss the Plaintiff's Complaint.

RESPONSE TO MOTION TO STRIKE

Jeffrey Reinking, by counsel, hereby serves the following response to Plaintiff's Motion to Strike:

Plaintiff's Motion to Strike misconstrues Jeffrey Reinking's Motion to Dismiss and the purpose of the attachment of Travis Reinking's FOID Revocation Letter to the Motion. Jeffrey Reinking moved to dismiss the Plaintiff's Complaint pursuant to 735 ILCS 5/2-615 – which allows a defendant to seek the dismissal of a matter by pointing out a specific defect within the complaint. 735 ILCS 5/2-615. This is exactly what Jeffrey Reinking's Motion to Dismiss did when it pointed out that, in his Complaint, "Plaintiff has not and cannot make allegations demonstrating that Jeffrey Reinking had a superior or exclusive right of control over Travis Reinking's firearms" – which are necessary components of Plaintiff's causes of action against Jeffrey Reinking. (Reinking's Motion to Dismiss at p. 3.)

Consideration of Travis Reinking's FOID Revocation Letter is unnecessary for an evaluation of, and this Court's disposition of, Jeffrey Reinking's Motion. Irrespective of the revocation letter, the Plaintiff's Complaint plainly lacks the required allegations of superior or exclusive control. However, the letter gives the motion context by illustrating that Jeffrey Reinking's insistence that Plaintiff include factual allegations of superior or exclusive control is not a matter of pleading hyper-technicality. Rather, it relates to a fundamental flaw in the Plaintiff's case: that Jeffrey Reinking's right of possession of the firearms at issue was not superior to Travis's and that Jeffrey Reinking had no legal right to dispossess Travis of his own property.

Finally, Plaintiff's Motion to Strike alternatively argues that this Court should disregard the FOID Revocation Letter because it is unauthenticated – which suggests that Plaintiff does not know whether or not Jeffrey Reinking attached an accurate copy of Travis Reinking's FOID Revocation Letter to his Motion. Interestingly, on August 24, 2018 – approximately 2 weeks before Plaintiff filed his Motion to Strike, Plaintiff received compliance with his subpoena to the Illinois State Police seeking its “file relating to the revocation of Travis Reinking's FOID card.” (Exhibit A (Plaintiff's Subpoena)). In its compliance, the Illinois State Police included a sworn Rule 902(11) Certification of Records of Regularly Conducted Activities along with a copy of Travis Reinking's August 16, 2017 FOID Revocation Letter. (Exhibit B (Rule 902(11) Certification and August 16, 2017 FOID Revocation Letter.)) As such, it is difficult to understand how Plaintiff can assert on September 6 that he did not know whether the exhibit attached to Jeffrey Reinking's Motion to Dismiss was an accurate copy of Travis Reinking's FOID Revocation Letter.

Wherefore, Jeffrey Reinking prays that this Honorable Court deny Plaintiff's Motion to Strike and grant whatever further relief it deems fit.

REPLY IN SUPPORT OF DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO DISMISS

Jeffrey Reinking, by counsel, hereby submits the following reply in support of his Motion to Dismiss:

Introduction

Jeffrey Reinking's Motion to Dismiss demonstrated that the Plaintiff's Complaint was deficient and must be dismissed. It established that the Complaint's negligent entrustment theory lacked the necessary factual allegations to show that Jeffrey Reinking had a superior or exclusive right of control over Travis's firearms. Likewise, it revealed that Plaintiff's attempt to impose a duty onto Jeffrey Reinking was poorly founded. Plaintiff's Response to this motion did nothing to alter Reinking's entitlement to dismissal. However, a few items appearing in Plaintiff's Response warrant specific reply.

I. Plaintiff's Response Cannot Elude The Fact That The Allegations Of The Complaint Do Not Establish Exclusive Or Superior Control Of Travis's Firearms.

No matter how hard it tries to obfuscate the issue, Plaintiff's Response cannot avoid the straightforward reason that necessitates the dismissal of the Complaint's negligent entrustment claim: the "Plaintiff has not and cannot make allegations demonstrating that Jeffrey Reinking had a superior or exclusive right of control over Travis Reinking's firearms." (Reinking's Motion to Dismiss at p. 3.) And, as the Illinois Supreme Court has made clear, the alleged entrustor's superior or exclusive right of control over the property at issue is a necessary element of a negligent entrustment claim. See Zedella v. Gibson, 165 Ill. 2d 181, 187 (1995). Without the presence of exclusive or superior control, there can be no negligent entrustment. For instance, an owner of property cannot negligently entrust property to a co-owner because "[a]s a general matter, one co-owner does not have a superior right of control over ... [property] compared to another co-owner." Id. at 189; see also Neale v. Wright, 322 Md. 8 (Md. Ct. App. 1991) (wife not liable for negligent entrustment for accident caused by husband because vehicle was co-owned and she did not have a superior right of control). Here, because the Complaint lacks the required factual allegations establishing that Jeffrey Reinking had a superior or exclusive right of control over Travis's firearms, the negligent entrustment claim cannot stand.

Plaintiff's Response even highlights the deficiencies of the Complaint's allegations in this regard. In his Response, Plaintiff contends that the Complaint's non-specific allegations concerning the ownership of Travis's firearms are subject to more than one "permissible inference." (Response at p. 6.) According to Plaintiff, one permissible inference is that "Travis had some ownership interest in the firearms." (Id.) Another alleged permissible inference is that "Defendant was a co-owner." (Id.) And a third "possibility" is "that Travis relinquished any ownership interest he had in the weapons when he surrendered them to the Tazewell County Sheriff.” This argument simply draws attention to the fact that the Plaintiff failed to make factual allegations supporting a conclusion of exclusive or superior control – particularly given that some of Plaintiff’s supposed “permissible inferences” are inconsistent with a conclusion that Jeffrey Reinking had a superior right of possession of the firearms.

In an attempt to defeat Jeffrey Reinking’s Motion, Plaintiff also implies that, in all cases, once a person’s FOID card is revoked, he loses the right to possess firearms in the State of Illinois. See, for example, Response at p. 5 (“Travis Reinking was not capable of legally owning or possessing the firearms because his FOID card had been revoked.”) Plaintiff’s interpretation of the FOID Act is just incorrect. Whether the revocation of a FOID card precludes a person from possessing a firearm in Illinois depends on the reason for revocation. If the revocation occurred only because the person ceased being a resident of Illinois, that person could still legally possess his firearms within the state. 430 ILCS 65/2(b). As a consequence, an allegation that the Illinois State Police revoked Travis’s FOID card without specifying the reason for the revocation does not help prove that Travis lacked a legal right of possession or that Jeffrey Reinking had a superior one.

Similarly, Plaintiff’s Response attacks the attachment of Travis’s FOID Revocation Letter to Reinking’s Motion to Dismiss¹ and misconstrues its purpose. Reinking’s Motion to Dismiss was brought pursuant to Section 2-615 because the Complaint failed to include factual allegations which established that Jeffrey Reinking had a superior or exclusive right of control over Travis’s firearms. The attachment of the FOID Revocation Letter does not change this argument or alter the basis of the dismissal of Plaintiff's Complaint. What it does, however, is give context to the motion and demonstrates that the Defendant's insistence that Plaintiff include the required factual allegations of superior or exclusive control is not a matter of pleading hyper-technicality. Rather, it relates to a fundamental problem with the Plaintiff's case against Jeffrey Reinking – namely, Jeffrey Reinking's right of possession of the firearms at issue was not superior to Travis's and Jeffrey had no legal right to dispossess Travis of his own property.

Finally, unlike the cases cited by Plaintiff, there are no allegations in the Complaint that Jeffrey Reinking purchased Travis's firearms for him or that the firearms were owned by Jeffrey Reinking and Jeffrey gave them to Travis. See Plaintiff's Response at p. 5. The absence of such allegations only further undermines the notion that Jeffrey Reinking had an exclusive or superior right of possession over Travis's firearms.

Simply stated, Plaintiff's Complaint lacks the required factual allegations to establish that Jeffrey Reinking had a superior or exclusive right of control over Travis's firearms and, without such allegations, Plaintiff's negligent entrustment claim necessarily fails.

II. Plaintiff's Response Only Emphasizes The Hurdles That He Faces In Imposing A Duty Onto Jeffrey Reinking To Keep Travis Dispossessed Of His Firearms.

Plaintiff's effort to prevent the dismissal of Count II only highlights the inadequacies of the Complaint and the lack of sufficient allegations to impose a duty onto Jeffrey Reinking. For instance, a primary problem with the Complaint is the lack of factual allegations suggesting that Jeffrey Reinking could satisfy a duty to prevent Travis from repossessing his firearms. The Complaint does not allege that Jeffrey Reinking owned the firearms at issue or that Travis transferred or relinquished his ownership in the firearms after the FOID card revocation.² In his

² The mere fact that a former FOID card holder relinquishes possession of his firearms after a FOID card revocation pursuant to 430 ILCS 65/9.5 does not, by itself, extinguish the former card holder's ownership interest in the firearm. Rather, the transfer of possession merely identifies where the firearm will be during the "prohibited term."

Response, Plaintiff does not squarely address this issue. Rather, he skirts it by weakly arguing that one can infer a power to satisfy the duty from the factual allegations of the Complaint. See Plaintiff's Response at pp. 11-12. Respectfully, that is simply not the case.

Similarly, Plaintiff asserts that Jeffrey Reinking only volunteered to take possession of Travis's firearms after the Tazewell County Sheriff's Department "confiscated" them -- suggesting that Jeffrey Reinking merely assumed a duty that the Sheriff's Department had the right to undertake. See, e.g., Plaintiff's Response at p. 10. However, as explained in the Defendant's Motion to Dismiss (and unaddressed in Plaintiff's Response), no one had the right to "confiscate" Travis Reinking's firearms upon his FOID card revocation -- irrespective of the reason for the revocation. Rather, even if the Illinois State Police had revoked Travis's FOID card for a reason that prohibited subsequent firearm possession in Illinois, Travis would still have 48 hours to dispose of his firearms. 430 ILCS 65/9.5.

Furthermore, even though Plaintiff has a copy of Travis' Illinois State Police FOID file, the Complaint still does not identify the reason for Travis's FOID card revocation. As such, because certain bases for revocation, such as non-residency, would still permit Travis to possess a firearm in Illinois, there are no allegations in the Complaint to support a conclusion that the sheriff's department would have had the power to even seek a warrant to seize Travis's firearms if he had refused to relinquish possession of them. See 430 ILCS 65/8(q) (FOID card can be revoked if person is no longer a resident of Illinois); 430 ILCS 65/2(b) (non-residents may possess a firearm in Illinois without a FOID card).

Finally, Rice v. White, 374 Ill. App. 3d 870 (4th 2007) -- a case cited heavily by Plaintiff -- is inapposite for the reasons stated above. In Rice, the court imposed onto party hosts a duty to 430 ILCS 65/9.5 (a)(1)(2)(B). In the case of a non-resident, that prohibited term -- to the extent that it began at all -- would end when the non-resident decides to transfer his firearms back to his state of residence. 430 ILCS 65/2(b).

check party guests for weapons. Id. at 884-85. Obviously, this is a duty that the party hosts had the ability to satisfy. If a guest refused to allow the hosts to check him or her for weapons, the party hosts could always deny the guest admittance to the party. Conversely, here, the Complaint lacks allegations suggesting that Jeffrey Reinking had the power to refuse Travis possession of his firearms.

Conclusion

Wherefore, Jeffrey Reinking prays that this Honorable Court grant Jeffrey Reinking's Motion to Dismiss, dismiss the Plaintiff's Complaint, and grant any further relief that it deems fit.
